

Infertility 2012-13

Georgia, 21, and her husband Robert, 48, have come to the desperate realization that they may not be able to have children. They have come to you for help. As an intern working with a physician specializing in infertility, what can you do for them?

Prepare an assessment of your findings, relating what is normal and abnormal about the couple's ability to reproduce and your recommendations for treatment.

Present your findings to medical professionals on Thursday, November 15.
